Judge Kotelly It seems that microsoft has been given abum rap no matter what the courts attempt to prove. like when your company has a patent you have the sole right to manufacture or supply the product to the public for X amount of years...Right? so no along come s Bill Gates who tears down the Ibm monopoly and puts the computer into the hands of even my grandchildren age 6 to 13....Shouldn t this entrepreneur be allowed to market his product against the copycat companies that sprung up from his dream??? I say let him and his company make all the money they want and let the newcomers develop something even beyond the scope and imagination of a Bill Gates. Call it progress or the good old american motto of building abetter mousetrap
